SENATOR RANSOM DEAD

SERVED FOR OVER TWENTY YEARS IN THE SENATE.

Had Brilliant War Record in the Confederate Army, Rising From Lieutenant Colonel to Major General.

Special Dispatch to The Evening Star. PORTSMOUTH, Va., October 8.-Advices from Seaboard. N. C., state that General Matt W. Ransom, for twenty-three years a senator of the United States from North Carolina, died at his home near that place this morning in the seventy-eighth year of his age. Senator Ransom was one of the most distinguished sons of North Carolina. He was the intimate personal friend of Presidents Arthur and Cleveland. During the latter's second term he appointed Senator Ransom minister to the republic of Mexico. Senator Ransom was a brigadier general in the service of the southern confederacy, and had a brilliant war record. His declining years were spent on his farm in North Carolina, which was one of the most successful in the state.

Senator Ransom's Career. Matthew Whitaker Ransom served in the United States Senate for twenty-three years. "Matt" Ransom, as he was commonly called and as he styled himself in the sketch of his career furnished to the Congressional Directory, was born in Warren county, N. C., in 1826. He received an academic education and was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1847, and was admitted to the bar in the same year. Five years later he was elected attorney general of North Carolina, which office he resigned in 1855. He was a member of the North Carolina legislature in 1858, '59 and '60. He was sent as a peace commissioner from the state of North Carolina to the congress of southern states at Montgomery, Ala., in 1861. He entered the confederate army, serving as lieutenant colonel, colonel, brigadier general and major general. After the war he was elected. to the United States Senate as a democrat in January, 1872. He was re-elected in 1876, 1883 and 1889. In 1895 he was appointed United States minister to Mexico.

ODELL TIRED OF POLITICS. Says He Has Had Enough of Office-Holding.

NEW YORK; October 8.-"I am tired of office-holding. I do not want any more of it," said Gov. Odell in this city today. "Does this apply to the United States senatorship?" he was asked. "It does," replied the governor.

To Visit Pacific Fortifications. Upon the recommendation of the chief of artillery, a board of artillery officers, composed of Lieut, Col, Sedgwick Pratt and Maj. Henry L. Harris, has been ordered to visit each artillery post and fortification on the Pacific coast of the United States to definitely fix and locate horizontal base lines for the approved system of artillery fire control and direction. The board will first inspect the fortifications in Puget Sound and then go down the coast until it completes its work at Fort Rosecrans, San Diego, Cal. Funeral of Wm. B. Mitchell. Wm. B Mitchell of 1343 Columbia road died yesterday at the Emergency Hospital, and was buried at Oak Hill this afternoon. The services were private, only the neares relatives being present. Mr. Mitchell fell during a stroke of epilepsy and suffered a end of the third lap was the imported car No. 15, driven by Teste. Starting 26 minutes after the first car got away the machine circled the course at remarkable speed. The first three laps (90.72 miles) were covered in 76 minutes and 20 seconds. The second lap was covered in 25.48.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's car, No. 10, which was unable to start with the others be-cause of a slight accident, was repaired and sent away more than two hours late.

The Vanderbilt car was started with no hepe that it would be a factor in the race, but to go after a speed record for the course. The car was stopped at the end of the first round, however, on the ground that a flying start was not permitted in a speed

The objection to the flying start was finally withdrawn and the Vanderbilt car was allowed to continue. The first round was completed in 26 minutes flat.

Crossed Tracks in Front of Engine. At Mineola Gabriel's car flashed across the Long Island railroad track almost directly in front of a moving train, missing the pilot of the engine by less than thirty feet. The train had been stopped by the signal man stationed at the crossing, but the engineer claims that the flag against him had been raised before he started. His train was moving and had gained fair headway just below the crossing, when the Gabriel car tore down the road. It is claimed that there was no signal set against him and that he had no recent the line. him and that he had no reason to believe that the track was not clear. For a moment it seemed that an accident was in-evitable, but the speed of the machine was so great that it dashed across the rails in

Gabriel, who led at the end of the first lap, maintained his advantage in the second, covering the course the second time at an average speed of sixty-two miles an hour. The end of the third lap also saw the French driver leading the procession, but in the next round Heath's car, No. 7, shot to the front, leading Gabriel by little more than four minutes. The machines entered by E. R. Thomas and W. G. Brokaw were out of the race before the end of the fourth lap, the first from broken springs and the second because of a shattered axle.

Heath Gets Lead From Gabriel. Heath took the lead from Gabriel early in the race and maintained it steadily, having a good lead over all the competitors up to the finish of the sixth round. Up to that time Gabriel had held second position, but an accident put him temporarily out of the race, and Clement, driving his own machine, took the position next behind the leader. Clement made the sixth round in 31 minutes. In the circuit of the course Heath experienced considerable hard luck, taking 48.11 to cover the course. Technically this meant a loss of seventeen points to the leader and left Clement lacking only ten points of the leading position. At that point Heath and Clement were well in the lead and both were pushing their cars to Gabriel's Second Thrilling Escape. Gabriel had a second thrilling escape from collision with a train. This time it was at Queens. A passenger train had stopped at the station and unloaded its passengers and had received the signal to go ahead. The station is only about 100 feet from the

On receiving the signal that the track was clear the engineer started up, and the locomotive had reached the middle of the race course when Gabriel's car rushed down the road. A shout went up from the crowd gathered at the crossing, and the signal was waved frantically to the engineer to back the train. The lever was promptly reversed, and as the locomotive slowly backed off the course the machine flashed by, missing the cowcatcher by less than two feet.

Bad Luck Pursued Heath.

Heath's bad luck pursued him. In the seventh round his tire was punctured at Queens, almost at the spot where Gabriel got in trouble a few minutes before. Clement continued to gain and drove his machine at its highest speed in an effort to cut down the lead held by Heath's disabled machine.

An explanation of the many mishaps on the Jericho turnpike came to light when Wally Owens, a chauffeur, found a large quantity of nails scattered along the course a short distance below the grand stand. Many pieces of broken glass also were

First Serious Accident. The first serious accident of the race occurred on the stretch between the turn at Queens and Westbury, when the tires slipped from Arens' machine and he and his chauffeur, Carl Muescher, were thrown violently to the ground. Arents was not seriously injured, but the chauffeur was badly hurt. Both were taken to a hospital at Mineola. Speed of Sixty Miles an Hour. Up to that point the leader had maintained an average speed of about sixty miles an hour, when the areas of control are deducted. This speed has been maintained including curves and other dangerous places where it was necessary to reduce speed to a minimum. Figuring these deduc-tions, the leader has at times made ninety miles an hour on level and straight stretches and some experts say that he has passed the grandstand at Westbury at the phenomenal speed of 100 miles an hour.

Decision Withdrawn. Clement protested the decision of the judges declaring Heath the winner of the race. The decision was withdrawn and the protest will be heard and winner declared at a meeting of the automobile association later in the day.

The further advance in the price of the rences that would ordinarily have claimed stock of the National Safe Deposit Company was undoubtedly the center of interest in the trading at today's meeting of the stock exchange. It was by no means a dull day, and there were other occur-a larger share of attention. For example, a sale at 75 was made of the preferred stock of the Washington Railway Company, which naturally delighted active in the dealing in this security, and

In the case of National Safe Deposit stock the highest level reached in today's sales was 170%. A couple of days ago the best bid for this stock was 152%, and the rise of nearly twenty points in that brief period is unusual in the case of a security of that kind.

The practical outcome of this movement has been that the entire advance has brought out less than 200 shares. Accord-ing to the generally circulated idea, these purchases mean that an effort is being made to secure a control of the company.

It is also thought that the same interests | Ithaca, N. Y., where he will continue his course in civil engineering at Cornell University.

which recently acquired a control of several national banks in this city are also behind this movement.

It is thought that an attempt is being made to get in all of what may be termed the floating stock and then to deal with the large holders. It was noticed in today's trading that near the close, when the stock was offered at 171, it was not taker, as it was evident the buyers were not prepared to go beyond 170. to go beyond 170.

Altogether some 800 shares of the pre-ferred stock of the Washington Railway Company was dealt in. Yesterday this stock was offered at 70%. Today the bid-ding ran up to 72% before there was any one willing to sell. The bid advanced to 73, and then to 74 and finally to 75.
